

Scheduling/Status Conferences

When a case has been referred for all pretrial proceedings, the Court may hold status, scheduling or discovery conferences as required or necessary. If counsel believes that any such conference would be productive, counsel may request one by calling the case manager. Such conferences may be in person or by telephone.