Criminal Cases: Supervised Release Violation Hearings

If the parties anticipate that a hearing on a supervised release violation will be contested, with the presentation of evidence to the Court, the parties must notify the Court at least one business day prior to the hearing and submit a proposed witness list that includes an estimation of each witness's anticipated length of testimony.